MANAGEMENT'S REPORT

MACROECONOMIC SCENARIO

The global economy growth continued in 2014 on the same pace as in the previous year, hence the modest acceleration expected earlier this year did not occur. After a very disappointing trend in the first quarter of the year, the US economy had since spring a great acceleration over its potential, while during the same period, the growth was weaker than expected in both the Eurozone and Japan, which even went back to recession after the increase in VAT occurred at the beginning of April. To the disappointing growth trend, especially in the Eurozone, a very small inflation dynamics added up, which was further amplified, at the end of the year, by the impact of the substantial drop in oil prices. This resulted in a significant divergence in monetary policy between the Federal Reserve (Fed), on one side, and the European Central Bank (ECB) and the Bank of Japan (BoJ), on the other, which mainly reflected in the strengthening of the US currency. The Fed completed smoothly and successfully the "tapering"¹ process started in December 2013 and very gradually started to prepare the conditions for an increase in rates. Since mid-year, however, the ECB gave a more accommodating shift to its policy, focusing, in particular, on assets expansion measures and moving for such purposes towards the Quantitative Easing by buying government bonds. At year end, the BoJ, faced with an inflation dynamics being incompatible with its goals, had to proceed to an expansive move not taken for granted by the markets.

In the USA, a heavy and completely unexpected decline in its GDP occurred in the first quarter of 2014, partly caused by particularly adverse weather conditions. During the two middle quarters of the year, a strong acceleration of growth rates (with an average rate, in the second and third quarters, close to an annualised 5%) was recorded. Albeit probably with a "physiological" slowdown, rates higher than potential were also registered in the final quarter of the year. The disappointing trend observed in the first quarter, however, resulted in a GDP growth on the whole year only slightly higher than the 2.2% recorded in 2013 and therefore lower than consensus expectations expressed earlier in the year. On the contrary, labour market conditions had a positive trend. Employment rate grew at a fast and continuous pace (with increments over 200 thousand units, with only one exception, in January, due to weather conditions) and the unemployment rate reduced by more than one percentage point in the year, without however resulting in an evidence of acceleration in the wage dynamics. The latter element helped to keep the inflation dynamics under control, despite the peak recorded during spring. The sharp decline in oil prices also led to a significant fall in the total inflation in the final months of the year, while "core" inflation (excluding food and fuel) remained under the "target" of the Federal Reserve. Monetary policy, finally, reserved no significant surprises: the Federal Reserve completed its process of gradual exiting from the Quantitative Easing² in October and began preparing the further normalisation of monetary policy, also showing some internal diversity of views about it.

The Eurozone recovery, started in the second half of 2013, continued in 2014 between highs and lows, proving to be still fragile and earning, in average over the year, an increase by just 0.8% (after -0.4% in 2013). In the first half of the year, the GDP growth was less than expected, as it was damped by both the strong appreciation of the Euro (which against major trading partners touched its maximum in March), and by foreign demand weakness caused by the difficulties of the emerging countries and, above all, by the crisis between Russia and Ukraine, which significantly involved also the German manufacturing sector (the crisis then continued throughout the year, with a peak in July characterised by the application of severe sanctions against Russia from the European Union and the United States). In contrast, during the year, the Eurozone's domestic demand showed a gradual recovery, mainly thanks to private consumptions fostered by the improved labour market conditions, with a return to job growth since the second quarter. Business investments were disappointing, also hampered by poor appetite of banks to expand credit, while the ECB was still undergoing the Asset Quality Review, which ended up in October, just before the ECB took over the role of sole supervisor of the banking system in the Area. Private consumptions undoubtedly benefited from the increase in the real income available resulting from the marked decline in inflation; a key variable that influenced the ECB's monetary policy for the entire year. Inflation actually continued to surprise to the downside since the end of 2013. In the second half of the year, its fall continued accelerating with peaks in the final months, as a result of the substantial decline in energy and raw materials prices, and inflation dropped into negative territory (-0.2%) in December. In response to a weak recovery and a marked contraction in inflation, the ECB in its meeting in May announced new support interventions: in June the reference interest rate was reduced by 10 bp at 0.15% and the rate on deposits was brought, for the first time, into negative territory. In September the stimulus action continued with another cut of reference interest³ (touching its minimum at 0.05%), while the rate on deposits fell to -0.2%. At the same time, the ECB announced targeted long-term refinancing operations (TLTRO), to reactivate the credit to companies, and in September the launch of a programme to purchase private securities (ABS and covered bonds). The first two TLTRO auctions were held in September and December but they did not give the expected results in terms of asset expansion of the ECB. For this reason, mainly due to the ongoing fall of market expectations on inflation in the medium-long term, the ECB gradually moved towards broadening its purchase programme to government debt securities.

In 2014 the main Asian emerging economies showed a rather marked diversity, but with some common denominators. Although earlier this year the foreign channel suffered from a slowdown in the demand from the US and from the Chinese economic deceleration, the economic growth remained sustained. In the second half of the year, the sharp decline in oil prices (and more generally in all raw materials prices) led to a differentiation of opportunities for the various economies subdivided between exporters, negatively hit, and importers, which on the contrary benefited from the situation. The absence of inflationary pressures allowed to implement expansionary monetary policies where necessary, while the strengthening of the Dollar, following the good performance of the US economy since the second quarter, resulted in a trend of depreciation for all major Asian currencies as well as in a massive outflow of capitals. In 2014 the Chinese economy showed, in line with expectations, a slowdown in growth and inflation (due to a weak domestic demand), prompting the authorities to take a series of stimulus policies that peaked in November with the unexpected decision to cut interest rates. Among these measures, the easing of restrictions on real estate proved to be of limited effectiveness in the revitalization of the demand and the

³ The reference interest rate of the European Central Bank (ECB) is the so-called "refi" rate (also called "rate for refinancing operations"). The refi rate represents the indexed value that banks are required to pay when they borrow money from the ECB. The interest rate of the ECB is also an instrument of intervention on the values of the market rates because it can affect other variables, such as the interbank rate sector continued to negatively affect the growth. The increase in the consumption tax, occurred in Japan in April, unexpectedly brought the economy in the two middle quarters of the year into recession, while inflation, surprising downward, moved away from the objective of the Central Bank, forced to another expansive move in late October. The Government also decided to postpone the second increase in the consumption tax scheduled for October 2015. Expansive monetary and fiscal policy therefore supported the economy which recovered in the last quarter of the year. The extremely positive outcome for Prime Minister Abe of the anticipated election in December finally provided a new injection of optimism on the implementation of structural reforms.

EQUITY MARKETS

2014 started with the currency turmoil occurred in the Emerging countries and with bad weather events in the US, which affected the macroeconomic data throughout the first quarter. Fears for a rise in US interest rates were soon dispelled and gradually investors realized that the Fed's "normalization" path would be quite long. Until the beginning of summer, the US and European markets recorded a positive and quite aligned performance, supported by the expectations of expansive interventions by the ECB. Meanwhile, the Japanese and the Emerging markets continued to under-perform; the Japanese market under-performed due to a worse than expected economic slowdown after the rise in the rate of consumption tax in April.

Since summer, however, a wider and wider gap between the US, on the one hand, and Europe and the rest of the world, on the other, was observed. The measures announced by the ECB in early June did not appear sufficient to tackle the economic stagnation of the Eurozone and the risk of lowering inflation expectations. The growth scenario worsened, especially in Germany, after the application of sanctions on Russia, following the tensions with Ukraine. The divergence in performance between the US and European markets in Euros increased even more during the second half of the year. In this context of European, Chinese and Japanese economies' slowdown and of excess of production, oil prices had been following since summer a strong downward trend, halving their value in just six months.

In the second half of the year, the divergence of economic and monetary cycle between the United States and the rest of the world, the strength of the US dollar and the collapse in oil prices significantly impacted the dynamics of equity markets. Emerging markets, except for a few exceptions like India, continued to under-perform the index of developed markets, against flows in favour of the US Dollar and the generalised lowering in commodity prices.

The S&P500 index produced an increase in price by +13% in 2014, while the STOXX600 and Topix indexes reported, respectively, + 4.25% and + 8.08%. The S&P500 index in Euro created even + 28.27%. The MSCI Emerging Market index in Dollars suffered from a drop by 4.72%. The Japanese stock market in local currency showed a significant recovery in mid-October when the Bank of Japan unexpectedly announced additional expansionary measures to support the economy and the Government's reform plan, known as Abenomics.

2014, started with expectations for a world economic cycle acceleration, especially in the second half of the year, developed on the contrary towards a divergence among the dynamics of the different geographical areas, a strengthening of the Dollar and the fall in oil prices. Despite the end of the Quantitative Easing in October, the Fed's attitude remained cautious throughout the year, especially in reiterating the gradualness of the process of rates' "normalization", on the basis of the macroeconomic data dynamics. Investors' attention was therefore focused on the other central banks, particularly on the ECB, in terms of expectations of ultra-expansive quantitative policies to stimulate the demand. Divergences of views within the ECB added elements of uncertainty during autumn. In the same period, the results of the stress tests and of the Asset Quality Review conducted by the ECB - provided for as part of the process of setting up a common supervision on the banking sector of the Euro area - were released.

The bullish trend of the US market and of the other indexes was abruptly interrupted on two occasions, with two corrections, also close to technical maturities on derivatives, both at early October and early December. However, in both cases, the resumption of the up-trend was fast.

The dynamics of Dollar and commodities significantly penalised the energy and materials sectors, while the technology, internet and pharmaceutical sectors benefited from a steady growth. In the latter part of the year, there was a recovery in the consumer discretionary sector, especially in the USA, thanks to the recovery of the purchasing power of households resulting from the oil price drop.

As regards the Emerging markets, in view of the good performance of the Indian index linked to the expectations of political reform of the new Government and the credibility of the Central Bank, other markets showed uneven trends.

The Chinese market with the A-shares made a strong recovery only at the end of the year, with the connection programme between the Shanghai Stock Exchange and Hong Kong one. The Brazilian market, which had aroused interest over summer in anticipation of a more reform-oriented political change, underperformed in autumn, when the expectations of political change were dashed.

BOND MARKETS

2014 was a particularly positive year for the international bond markets. Contrary to the prevailing market expectations held at the beginning of the year, yields fell in major areas, due to a combination of weak growth, mainly in Europe and China, and to particularly accommodating monetary policies both in Europe and in Japan. The weakening trend of commodities and, in particular, the sharp drop in oil prices started in mid-June, which brought the price of Brent from 115 to 57.5 dollars a barrel, applied a strong deflationary pressure on the major economic regions, contributing to keep yields low in the United States, where the Fed continued a gradual reduction of asset purchasing, ending the expansion phase of the budget in October and reaffirming its intention to begin a period of rising rates, probably starting from mid 2015.

The European bond market followed a substantially positive trend throughout the year. Macroeconomic data did not confirm the expectations of the ECB's recovery, with economic weakness spread also to certain core countries, such as France. Tensions in Ukraine and subsequent economic sanctions applied to Russia also contributed to deteriorate the market sentiment, providing bonds with additional support. The ECB intervened on the cost of borrowing for the first time in June, cutting the Repo rate from 0.25% to 0.15%, and at the same time announcing new long-term refinancing operations (called TLTRO), aimed at stimulating credit flow to the real economy. In September, the Central Bank proceeded with a second cut to the reference rate by 0.05%, also announcing its intention to buy asset-backed securities and covered bonds, in order to restart a budgetary expansion. In the final months of the year, expectations for further monetary easing measures in the form of a possible extension of asset purchases of Government securities, as a result of the gradual weakening of inflation expectations which elevated the risk level associated with a deflationary scenario, raised. The yield on the ten-year German bond dropped by 139 basis points, amounting at 0.54%, from an initial level of 1.93%; on the two-year maturity, relevant yield amounted at -0.10%, with a fall by 17 basis points. Peripheral bond spreads continued to shrink as a result of the general performance research from investors forced to operate in a context of particularly low yields and of the expectations of a possible Quantitative Easing in 2015. The spread between the ten-year German bond and its Italian equivalent amounted at year-end at 135 basis points, from 219 of the beginning of the period, with an absolute return for the ten-year Italian security of 1.89%.

The US bond market widely surprised investors' expectations with a positive performance. Despite the completion from the Fed of its tapering phase occurred in October and the evidence of an economic recovery, which allowed a gradual and continuous strengthening of the labour market, with an unemployment rate passed from 6.7% at the beginning of year to 5.8% in November, and an equity market which registered new highs in the year, yields on medium and long-term segments of the Treasury market were considerably reduced. The ten-year benchmark yield at year end amounted at 2.17%, from 3.03%, while the thirty-year bond closed at 2.75%, from 3.97%. The only rise in yields was observed on short-term securities, with the two-year benchmark closing at 0.66%, from 0.38%. The reasons for this performance were primarily attributable to the following factors: an average market positioning largely underweight as per the duration of this asset class since the early beginning of the year, an international context essentially deflationary as a result of the Chinese weakness and the consequent impact on prices of several industrial and energy commodities. Bad contributions came also from the weakness of Europe and Japan, whose respective central banks during the year further eased monetary policy resulting in, concerning Japan, a significant pouring of liquidity in the system, which ended up by pouring also into the US market. Finally, a negative contribution came from the gradual general recognition by both some market participants and several central banks that the next phase of monetary tightening will probably lead to balanced interest rates lower than those recorded in the past, and this because of structural factors partly due to the higher level of overall indebtedness of the major economies of both the developed countries and the developing countries.

EXCHANGE RATE MARKETS

On the foreign exchange market, the main theme for 2014 was the strengthening of the US Dollar against both the currencies of advanced countries and those of the Emerging ones. The EUR/USD exchange rate recorded an initial strengthening of the Euro against the US Dollar, which culminated in May at a level of 1.40. In the initial part of the year the divergent dynamics of budgetary expansion of Fed and ECB prevailed on the market, with Fed's budget still growing, albeit at a decreasing rate, and the European one still in contraction. In addition, the Eurozone continued benefiting from a significant trade surplus resulting from the reduction of domestic consumption. As of May, this trend reversed, thanks mainly to the widening of the economic growth differential between the US and the Eurozone and to the adoption of a more expansionary monetary policy by the ECB. The European Central Bank, among other things, began to highlight the leverage of the exchange rate as a relevant factor in the achievement of its inflation targets. At year end, the exchange rate amounted at 1.2157, from 1.3743 at the beginning of the year. The Yen continued its weakening phase between October and the end of December, also due to a further expansion of the Quantitative Easing from the Central Bank of Japan in October, whose intervention was not expected by the market. In the final part of the year, nevertheless, the weakness of the Euro prevailed, due to the growing expectations of a Quantitative Easing in Europe, and the Euro/Yen exchange therefore amounted at 144.90 at year-end, remaining essentially unchanged from its 144.82 of the beginning of the period. Finally, the Pound strengthened until July. In the middle of the year, in fact, the British economy surprised to the upside compared to expectations prevailing in the market. Later on, however, the uncertainties related to the Scottish referendum, the gradual slowdown of the domestic economy, which reduced expectations of an early rise in official rates, and the increasing uncertainty due to the elections to be held in 2015, took lustre away from the currency, which continued to depreciate against the US Dollar in tandem with the Euro. The Euro/Pound exchange rate therefore amounted at 0.7765 at the end of year, from 0.831 at the end of 2013.

TRENDS OF SUB-FUNDS

EURO SHORT TERM

2014 was characterised by the search for yields, implemented by both increasing the duration and selecting the securities with lower ratings. The yields on the bond markets immediately began to shrink and also the levels of peripheral bond spreads did the same compared to those of the European core countries. The transactions announced and implemented by the ECB (two rate cuts in June and September, with the deposit rate at -0.20%, a new plan for the long-term refinancing operations (LTRO), a programme of purchases private securities (Asset-Backed and Covered Bond), in addition to a change of rhetoric against a Quantitative Easing in Europe) had the effect of offsetting the end of the QE in the US in October, keeping the bond markets supported. In the second half of the year, however, moments of volatility caused by a continuous decrease in the surplus of liquidity were recorded. The six-month Euribor rate significantly decreased from 0.387% earlier this year, to 0.171% at the year-end. The investment focused mainly on fixed-rate Italian short-term bonds, and more and more on variable rate securities through Treasury Certificates (CCTs). During the year a general exposure to peripheral bond and duration was kept, modulating it tactically, also using derivatives, especially during the last quarter of the year, in order to take advantage of the illiquidity of the market.

The absolute performance of the sub-fund was positive; in relative terms, taking management costs into account, it outperformed its benchmark.

EURO BOND LOW RISK

During 2014, the European bond market recorded a basically positive trend. Macroeconomic data did not confirm the expectations of recovery of the ECB, with economic weakness spread also to certain core countries. The ECB intervened on the cost of borrowing in June, cutting the Repo rate from 0.25% to 0.15% and at the same time announcing new long-term refinancing operations called TLTRO. In September, the Central Bank proceeded with further rate cuts, taking the main refinancing rate to 0.05% and announced its intention to purchase asset-backed securities and covered bonds. In the final months of the year, the expectations for further monetary easing measures by the ECB grew in the form of a possible extension of asset purchases also to Government securities, as a result of the gradual weakening of inflation expectations which elevated the risk level associated with a deflationary scenario. The yield on the two-year German bond fell by 17 basis points to -0.10%. Peripheral bond spreads continued to shrink, outperforming core bonds. At operational level a structural overexposure to peripheral bonds was adjusted during the year. The absolute performance was positive and the management activity allowed the partial recovery of management costs.

EURO BOND MEDIUM RISK

During 2014, the European bond market recorded a basically positive trend. Macroeconomic data did not confirm the expectations of recovery of the ECB, with economic weakness spread also to certain core countries. The ECB intervened on the cost of borrowing in June, cutting the Repo rate from 0.25% to 0.15% and at the same time announcing new long-term refinancing operations called TLTRO. In September, the Central Bank proceeded with further rate cuts, taking the main refinancing rate to 0.05% and announced its intention to purchase asset-backed securities and covered bonds. In the final months of the year, the expectations for further monetary easing measures by the ECB grew in the form of a possible extension of asset purchases also to Government securities, as a result of the gradual weakening of inflation expectations which elevated the risk level associated with a deflationary scenario. The yield on the two-year German bond fell by 17 basis points to -0.10%. Peripheral bond spreads continued to shrink, outperforming core bonds. At operational level a structural overexposure to peripheral bonds was modulated during the year. Futures were also used to tactically modulate the product duration and the relative exposure between core and peripheral countries. The absolute performance was positive and the management activity allowed the partial recovery of management costs.

EURO BOND LONG RISK

The European bond market kept a substantially positive trend throughout 2014. Macroeconomic data did not confirm the ECB's upturn expectations. The progressive weakening of the inflation expectations raised the level of risk associated with a deflationary scenario. In the final months of the year an increase in the expectations for further monetary easing measures by the ECB, in the form of a possible extension of the asset purchase to government bonds was observed.

At operational level, the main positions held during 2014 were a long position in the Italian ten-year sector and a short position in Euro vs. US Dollar. In this way it was exploited the effect that expansive policies (implemented or only mentioned) of the European Central Bank had in terms of contraction of peripheral rates and weakening of the Euro vs. the US currency. The exchange rate trend was also influenced by the monetary policy of the Fed, which continued to progressively reduce its quantitative stimulus. It was also tactically modulated the exposure to several European issuers and to the curves of the core countries. The latter position, in particular, was created by using derivatives contracts to take advantage of the core curves' flattening in the 10 to 30 year segments, especially in the last quarter of the year.

The absolute performance was positive and, in relative terms, taking management costs into account, it was higher than its benchmark.

BOND GLOBAL HIGH YIELD

High Yield has been a tale of two halves in 2014: a strong one way positive trend prior to the summer, followed by a period of volatility when credit spreads widened significantly from their summer lows. No single catalyst has been the root cause, rather a combination of public health concerns, geopolitics and energy prices have all contributed to outflows from the asset class. Geopolitical events in 2014, such as militant strikes in Iraq and political tensions between Ukraine and Russia, led to increased demand for safehaven assets and consequently, resulted in outflows from global high yield. In the second half of 2014, volatility in the energy sector was driven largely by a slowdown in demand but was also supply side concerns. Oil prices neared $50 a barrel and negative sentiment weighed on the rest of the energy complex. Nevertheless, high yield bonds managed to post positive returns over the year, majorly driven by coupon income as high yield spreads widened over the year. The portfolio returned 1.012% for 2014, outperforming its benchmark if we consider management costs, which returned 2.30%. From a sector perspective, adverse selection in the utility sector proved to be the biggest detractor while selection in the basic industry sector also detracted from results. The fund's hedging strategy, through the use of index CDS, was also a detractor over the year. Nonetheless, the underweight in banking sector contributed positively, as did the underweight in the consumer non-cyclical sector. Looking ahead, a number of events, including geopolitics, economic data, monetary policy and rate rises in the US, can lead to increased volatility. However, corporate bonds should be supported by low interest rates and the ECB's backstop. Weakness since the summer has restored the valuation proposition, with yields back over 7%. Despite weakness in the energy sector, we believe investors are receiving ample compensation for a low default environment, and adequate compensation for a rising default environment. Against this backdrop, we believe the high yield has the potential to deliver a mid-single digit return. However, focusing on downside management is more important than ever. As a result, the fund continues to focus on investment discipline while still searching for the best sources of carry and idiosyncratic upside opportunities.

BOND US PLUS

The Fideuram Fund Bond US Plus returned 17.796%, slightly underperforming its benchmark in a year characterized by central banks' policies globally and geopolitical uncertainty. In the US the outlook improved as job gains stabilized and business investment showed signs of improving; in addition, the Fed closed its chapter on QE by announcing it would end its long-running bond purchase program, citing rosier economic indicators. Elsewhere, both the BoJ and the ECB continued in their accommodative stance: Kuroda announced an increase in the program of bond buying and Draghi hinted to a potential upcoming QE in 2015. Finally, geopolitical instability added to volatility with the sanctions against Russia, elections in various emerging markets and conflicts in Syria and Ukraine caused risky assets to sell off.

Throughout the year we managed tactically our duration exposure, being underweight in the US for the first semester, going overweight during the third quarter and moving into underweight again over the last quarter. Our major overweight was on the short-end and belly (2-7) of the curve, while being underweight the long-end part: this position detracted given the bull flattening of the curve. We maintained an overweight posture in the Eurozone, by being mainly exposed to peripherals (Italy and Spain above all) given accommodative monetary policy by Draghi: this position paid off. Our off-benchmark positions were focused on TIPS, where we took advantage of a decrease in real rates, on Emerging Markets, where Mexico and Brazil offer positive real rates and solid debt dynamics, on high yield credit, where our overweight was mitigated by our underweight on investment grade issues, and on non-agency mortgages, where we continue to see value on the back of an improving US real estate sector: all these exposure contributed to the final result.

Finally, on currencies, our successful overweight to the US dollar and underweight to the Japanese yen and the Euro, where accommodative monetary policies weight on the depreciation vs. the greenback, added to performance.

BOND YEN

During 2014, the Japanese bond market recorded a positive performance. The contribution to performance came almost entirely from bond prices because the Euro-Yen exchange rate, albeit very volatile, closed essentially unchanged. Yields on Japanese Government bonds significantly dropped instead. The best performances were recorded on long-term securities, with the 30-year benchmark bond closing with a return of 1.24%, down 47 basis points; While the ten-year benchmark recorded 0.32%, down 40 basis points. The five-year bond closed at 0.23%, down 20 basis points. In October, the Central Bank of Japan, further increased its purchases of government bonds in an effort to further push inflation towards the stated goal of 2%. This came after the evidence of a marked domestic economy slowdown as a result of the increase in VAT implemented in April by the Government. The decline in oil prices also reduced inflation expectations on the market, further calling the Central Bank's ability to achieve its objective into question. The massive purchases of securities, coupled with the ongoing concerns of operators about the perspective upsurge in inflation, led to a decline in yields which were originally already extremely low. At operational level, it was kept a duration and curve exposure close to that of its benchmark. The performance, also considering management costs, was substantially aligned with the index.

EQUITY ITALY

During 2014, the Italian equity market recorded a slightly positive performance. After a particularly positive first half of the year, the second half recorded a market heading to a backdrop of persistent and extremely high volatility. Initially, the expectations for a recovery in the economy cycle and for structural reforms led to substantial buying flows from leading international investors. The sharp increases in the indexes in the first months were then gradually eroded due to the continued weakness in the macroeconomic trend and the negative dynamics of some sectors, among which the oil sector stood out. The reference period was characterised by continuous operations aimed, in part, at taking advantage from the volatility which remained at values being higher than the historical average. In particular, as regards the financial sector, a constant exposure to the insurance sector was kept while, over time, the exposure related to bank securities was varied. Throughout the year a constant overweight was kept in some leading companies engaged in industrial restructuring and revitalization. After a particularly brilliant initial phase of the year, the exposure to several smaller capitalizations was reduced.

The result of the sub-fund was positive and its performance, also considering management costs, was higher than its benchmark.

EQUITY EUROPE

In 2014 the European stock market recorded a positive performance. The year was characterised by high volatility as a result of the geopolitical tensions (Russia/Ukraine), of the strong movements of currencies (the sharp revaluation of the US Dollar vs. all the other currencies), of the actions by the Central Banks (including primarily the rate cuts implemented by the ECB) and the sharp decline of raw materials (mainly oil). Regarding sectors, the year was characterised by the out-performance of defensive sectors vs. more cyclical sectors, despite the considerable valuation premium of the first ones over the second ones and the fact that many defensive sub-sectors underwent material downwards revisions of the estimates of profits.

During the year, the sub-fund recorded a decrease in assets. At the operational level, the sub-fund maintained a concentrated portfolio, preferring sectors and securities more exposed to the economy (cyclical, financial, utility) in relation to their greater valuation attractiveness. The preference for these sectors resulted in a disappointing performance of the sub-fund, both in absolute terms and in relation to its benchmark.

EURO CORPORATE BOND

In 2014, the bond market went through several phases. Overall, at least in Europe, a very positive season was recorded, given the spread compression and lower government yields. The decisive factors of this force were to be found in the generalised search for yield, inspired by the compressed level of yields and in the anticipation of a possible Quantitative Easing from the ECB. The positioning of the sub-fund was basically designed to support this search for risk, while applying recurrent tactical adjustments. A continuous effort was then lavished on the optimization of the portfolio, looking for names with the best expected profitability and using both securities and derivatives.

EQUITY USA

In 2014 the US equity market recorded a positive performance in local currency that was significantly enhanced by the strengthening of the Dollar against the Euro. In the U.S., the various signs of economic recovery contributed to the good performance of the market. Moreover, the good corporate earnings, the increase of merger and acquisition activity and the expansionary monetary policy of the Central Bank more than compensated the growing geopolitical tensions. The unemployment rate fell by more than one point compared to 2013 (recording 5.8%) and the improvement in the margins of the US companies added to this. The wealth of positive economic data confirmed the strong recovery of the US, which could therefore partially reduce the tax burden to stimulate consumption; in addition, the Fed's choice to keep the US rates close to zero for a "considerable period of time" was undoubtedly of great help. Finally it must be said that 2014 marked a significant upturn in the construction industry with an increase in the value of real estate for the first time in a long while.

During the year the sub-fund's assets under management did not record any reduction. At operational level, management decisions were constantly oriented to the search for stocks with attractive valuations, using both fundamental and quantitative selectivity approaches. During the year, the financial, pharmaceutical and consumer discretionary sectors were privileged. The absolute performance of the sub-fund was positive; in relative terms, taking management costs into account, the performance was below its benchmark.

AURORA (Sub-fund closed on 13/11/2014)

The sub-fund maintained a very defensive structure throughout the year. The portfolio was invested in short-term (a few months) corporate or government securities in the Eurozone and with investment grade rating. The sub-fund was liquidated towards the end of the year.

EQUITY JAPAN

The year started off poorly, markets falling sharply in January after a strong sell off of emerging market currencies. Markets clawed back some of January losses in February. The BoJ surprised the market by maintaining its expansionary monetary policy. In March rising tension rose between Russia and the Ukraine after Pro Russians forces invaded Crimea, fear of conflict caused markets to decline. There was a sharp rise in retail sales in March ahead of the sales tax hike which came into effect in April. May saw a first positive monthly return of the year in Japan, as domestic demand coming in stronger than anticipated. This rally continued through June with Japanese markets regaining much of their earlier losses. In the third quarter we saw a further escalation to the continuing Ukraine – Russia conflict, with the shooting down of the Malaysian Air flight MH17. Japan joins the US and the EU imposing stricter sanctions on Russia. September saw PM Abe reshuffle his cabinet for the first time since being elected. Markets remained generally flat for the July and August. During September the Nikkei broke through 16000 and turned positive for the year. October saw markets decline on fresh fears of a global slowdown. In a surprise move the BoJ increased their monetary to ¥80tn per year, markets rallied strong on this announcement. In November Japan slip back into recession on the back of stalled consumer spending as a result of the April sales tax increase. PM Abe calls a snap election for December 14th. Mr Abe party and coalition party are re-elected to government. The Nikkei ends the year above 17000 after hitting a 7 year high earlier in the month.

The Funds exhibited a positive absolute performance but lagged in relative terms. The main negative contributors to the relative performance were the Industrials, the Healthcare and the Information Technology sectors in particular through the over weights in Sumitomo Electric Industries, Kubota Corp., West Japan Railway Company and ONO Pharmaceutical.

BOND GLOBAL EMERGING MARKETS

2014 was a very volatile year for the Emerging Countries' bond market. The sub-fund, as a whole, had a positive return, reaching its highest levels ever. Taking management costs into account, the sub-fund out-performed its benchmark. The performance was greatly helped by the component linked to the US interest rates, whereas the spread widened over the year. The reasons for the weakness were due to problems already emerged during the second half of the previous year: in particular, the reduction in the growth rates differential between the developed world (particularly the US) and the emerging world. Moreover, although the global liquidity conditions remained, all things considered, favourable, the drainage of liquidity by the Fed and the subsequent strength of the Dollar had a negative impact on some countries being excessively linked to foreign flows. In the second half of the year, the collapse in oil prices and raw materials played an important role in the perception by investors of the difficulties that the current situation poses to the emerging economies, which are the main exporters of energy. As regards the performance of the individual areas, Eastern European Countries, also thanks to the perspective of the Quantitative Easing by the ECB, showed the best results. Latin America, listing the main exporters of raw materials among its countries, recorded a negative performance.

EQUITY PACIFIC EX JAPAN

During 2014, developed Pacific-ex-Japan markets had a positive performance in local currency and in Euro. The best performers were New Zealand, Singapore and Hong Kong, while Australia was almost flat.

In a global slow growth macro environment along with a global monetary easing, local markets were mainly driven by China's slowing economy and the crisis which affected the commodities. Best performer sectors were Banking and some of the domestic ones (Infrastructure, Real Estate), along with the Healthcare sector. The laggard sectors were Mining and Mining Capex.

Regarding the management strategy, the bottom-up approach focused on stocks with a clear and sustainable competitive advantage, high cashflow generation, a good visibility on future earnings along with attractive valuations. Market allocation tried to capture opportunities dynamically. During first half a more cyclical tilt was implemented to the portfolio with an exposure to domestic Australian sectors such as the Industrials, the Retailers Infrastructure and the mining primary sector, while in Hong Kong the portfolio was exposed to Retailers under-weighting the Real estate sector. During second half, a more defensive approach was implemented, over-weighting Healthcare and Pharmaceuticals sectors in Australia, reducing exposure to Materials, while in Hong Kong stocks with an exposure to the Chinese market was implemented, particularly in Engineering and Construction, Railways and Insurance.

During 2014, the sub-fund had significant inflows.

During the year, the absolute performance of the sub-fund was significantly positive due markets and local performance.

The relative performance, considering management costs, was positive and the sub-fund over-performed its benchmark because of the rewarding management approach and the stock picking and sector allocation detailed above.

EQUITY GLOBAL EMERGING MARKETS

In 2014, the emerging markets registered a positive performance in Euro (MSCI Em. Markets +8%), benefiting, inter alia, from a general weakening of the Euro against some emerging currencies.

2014 was characterised by a high dispersion of performance among the emerging markets. In particular, the Indian market recorded a very positive performance (+38% in Euros) thanks to the improvement of the macro-economic framework and expectations of a more favourable investment climate following the election of N. Modi as Prime Minister. The performance of Russian market was opposite in sign (-40% in Euros), which in 2014 suffered from the penalties by the NATO countries following the worsening of the crisis in Ukraine and from the sharp drop in oil prices, that represents a decisive item in Russian exports. Between these extremes there was also the +18% of China which, due to administrative measures designed to support the growth of investments and its stabilization in the housing market, benefited from a climate of greater confidence about the ability of the financial system to go through the current slowdown without a systemic crisis.

The sub-fund tried to exploit the opportunities offered by the market by means of a dynamic approach, increasing its equity exposure in the phases of high risk aversion when the valuations of the companies within our core portfolio became interesting also considering also the macro environment. In particular the stock selection process favours companies with good corporate governance and with a strong competitive position which market price trades a significant discount compared to the intrinsic value (calculated discounting the free cash flows).

During the period, the sub-fund's performance was positive and, taking management costs into account, it was higher than its reference index.

EURO DEFENSIVE BOND

During 2014, the European bond market recorded a basically positive trend. Macroeconomic data did not confirm the expectations of recovery of the ECB, with economic weakness spread also to certain core countries. The ECB intervened on the cost of borrowing in June, cutting the Repo rate from 0.25% to 0.15% and at the same time announcing new long-term refinancing operations called TLTRO. In September, the Central Bank proceeded with further rate cuts, taking the main refinancing rate to 0.05% and announced its intention to purchase asset-backed securities and covered bonds. In the final months of the year, the expectations for further monetary easing measures by the ECB grew in the form of a possible extension of asset purchases also to Government securities, as a result of the gradual weakening of inflation expectations which elevated the risk level associated with a deflationary scenario. The yield on the two-year German bond fell by 17 basis points to -0.10%. Peripheral bond spreads continued to shrink, outperforming core bonds. At operational level a structural overexposure to peripheral bonds was adjusted during the year. The absolute performance was positive and the management activity allowed the partial recovery of management costs.

INFLATION LINKED

In 2014 the inflation linked market recorded a positive performance. Contrary to expectations prevailing in the market early in the year, yields on long-term segments of the major bond markets followed a downward trend. The expectations of rises in official rates in the US gradually reduced also following the weakness in commodity prices, mainly oil, while in Europe growth data disappointed expectations, prompting the ECB to implement monetary stimulus measures. Inflation expectations at the same time underwent a gradual, continuous downward revision in the second half of the year. All major markets in which the sub-fund is invested positively contributed to the overall performance. At operational level, on the cash component of the portfolio a relatively stable allocation was kept, implementing a structural overexposure to peripheral bonds in Europe. Future contracts were also used to tactically vary the exposure to duration and to different countries. The management activity allowed a partial recovery of management costs.

EQUITY USA ADVANTAGE

For the one year ended 12/31/14, the fund returned 21.439% while the MSCI US index returned 26.517%.

Our team continues to focus on bottom-up stock selection and the long-term outlook for companies owned in the portfolio; accordingly, we have had little turnover in the portfolio to date, as generally our ongoing work reaffirms our assessment of quality and competitive advantage in the names we own.

Utilities, as measured by the MSCI USA benchmark, was the strongest performing sector over the period under review, while Energy was the weakest sector during this period. The broad and deep sell-off in high growth, high multiple stocks earlier in 2014 acted as a headwind for the portfolio. Stock selection and a sector overweight in Consumer Discretionary was the greatest detractor during this period. Online retail and cloud computing leader Amazon.com (8.1%) was the poorest performer in this area and the greatest detractor across the portfolio, as the company's reinvestment in various business initiatives has impeded profit growth.

Mixed stock selection in Information Technology also weighed on relative results. Global communications platform Twitter (3.4%) was the second greatest detractor in the portfolio, as though the company's monetization progress has been ahead of expectations, user growth figures have disappointed. Wireless communication devices maker Motorola Solutions also detracted, due to operational results which lagged expectations. The position in Motorola Solutions was eliminated in September to fund other investments. Within the sector, the weakness in Twitter and a diverse set of other holdings was partly offset by strength in leading online social networking platform Facebook (8.8%), which was the top contributor across the portfolio on account of continued strong execution and progress on monetization initiatives.

To a lesser extent, stock selection and sector allocations in Health Care and Financials, along with a lack of exposure to Utilities, also detracted. Conversely, stock selection and a sector overweight in Consumer Staples was the greatest contributor this period; performance was led by beverage maker Dr. Pepper Snapple Group (2.8%), infant nutrition provider Mead Johnson (4.3%), and wholesale club retailer Costco (3.4%), which were all among the top contributors across the portfolio.

Energy was also accretive to relative performance, as the portfolio had minimal exposure to this poor performing sector.

Lastly, a sector underweight position in Industrials also helped relative performance, as did a lack of exposure to Materials and Telecommunication Services.

We believe having a market outlook can be an anchor. As a result we continue to focus on assessing company prospects over three to five years, and owning a portfolio of high quality companies with diverse business drivers not tied to a particular market environment.

COMMODITIES

In 2014 the commodities recorded an overall negative performance. Until April, the general trend was positive thanks to the prices in the sector, then it reversed decisively, maintaining a downward trend until the end of year. All major sectors were down. The most significant decline was registered by the Energy sector (-49%), following the sharp fall in oil prices. The sub-fund was mainly affected by the slowing down of the Chinese economy and, secondly, by the slowing down in Europe and in some emerging countries, such as Brazil. At operational level, on several occasions during the year the allocation among the various optimized strategies used by the sub-fund to gain exposure to the asset class, were changed. The cash portion of the investment was invested in government bonds, mainly in short-term Italian bonds, and floating rate securities CCT. The absolute performance was negative whereas the management activity allowed the partial recovery of management costs.

MARSHALL WACE TOPS

The Fideuram UCITS Fund returned +4.67% net (EUR Class) during 2014. The net market exposure of the Fund averaged +0.23%, decreasing from +1.09% at the beginning of the year to +0.93% at year end. The gross market exposure averaged 184.57%, from 186.35% at the start of the year to 185.80% by 31 December.

Throughout the period under review the Fund's greatest net long exposures were to Pharma & Biotechnology, Auto & Components and Insurance sectors, and the largest net short exposures were to Banks, Food & Staples and Energy. At a country level, the largest net exposures were France, Taiwan and Italy on the long side and the UK, Switzerland and Japan on the short side.

In terms of performance, the Fund most heavily benefitted from exposure to Energy, Pharma & Biotechnology and Transportation whilst holdings in Health Care Equipment, Software and Semiconductors detracted the most from overall returns. At the country level, the greatest losses were sustained in Russia, the Netherlands and Italy while exposure to the USA, the UK and Japan positively contributed to P&L. At the single stock level, exposure to Seadrill Ltd, Fidelity National Financial and Transocean were most additive to performance, while the largest losers were Sumco Corporation, FNF Group and Cyberdyne Inc.

The portfolio remains heavily diversified and liquid, with 2,653 positions on average during 2014 (1,393 long and 1,260 short) and >99% of investments able to be liquidated in one trading day (calculation based off trading a third of the 30 day average volume during December 2014).

The first half of 2014 was disappointing and resulted from a series of unfortunate events. However, at the beginning of H2, we expressed our confidence in the TOPS process and reiterated that the overall investment environment remained moderately attractive. The second half of the year was solid and particularly noteworthy given the poor equity market performance. The Fund's benchmark (MSCI AC Daily TR Net Europe Local Index) returned -0.5% in the 6 months to December versus the Fund's performance of +5.36%. A key trend in the latter half of the year was the substantial decline in the price of oil. The Fund had a net short position in Energy companies, and particularly energy services firms.

The MW TOPS strategies target broad-based contribution to returns across all areas in the market. In ideal circumstances the Fund will produce positive returns in around 60-80% of sectors and countries. This year, this has again been the case with all but six sectors contributing to returns. The two largest sector contributors were Energy, which in H1 was one of the worst-performing sectors for the Fund, and Pharmaceuticals & Biotechnology (primarily in the first half). Likewise, the country returns were broad based with all but three countries contributing to returns. Regionally, there were strong positive returns across all regions, with Europe leading the way and the Americas following a few bps lower.

Our Alpha Regime Indicators are designed to inform our decision-making around how much overall risk to take in terms of gross market exposure. Our indicator has broadly stayed between level 2 and 3 during the first 3 quarters of 2014, oscillating around the mid-point of the 5 point scale, and then moved to 4 throughout Q3 2014, mostly reflecting the volatility spike of the stock market. Throughout the period under review, the average stock dispersion peaked in Q3 across Europe and the Americas while the average stock pairwise correlations remained at normalised levels. This underpinned our continued belief in the suitability of the current environment for bottom-up stock selection and diversified trading opportunities in equities.

EQUITY USA VALUE

During 2014, the Morgan Stanley Value index recorded a positive performance local currency that was significantly enhanced by the strengthening of the Dollar against the Euro.

In the reporting period, the sub-fund did not register any significant outflow or inflow.

In the U.S., the various signs of economic recovery contributed to the good performance of the market. Moreover, the good corporate earnings, the increase of merger and acquisition activity and the expansionary monetary policy of the Central Bank more than compensated the growing geopolitical tensions.

The unemployment rate fell by more than a point compared to 2013 (recording 5.8%) and the improvement in margins of US companies added to this. During the year, the sub-fund's assets under management did not record any marginal exit.

The sub-fund kept a constant exposure in a condition of maximum investment throughout the year, privileging the financial, industrial and consumer discretionary sectors.

The absolute performance was positive but in relative terms, taking management costs into account, it under-performed its benchmark.

FLEXIBLE OPPORTUNITY

The sub-fund maintained a very defensive structure throughout the year. The portfolio was invested in very short-term government securities, with the highest rating. The NAV of the fund had such a size not to allow any effective diversification in a more complex and richer portfolio.

EQUITY EUROPE GROWTH

In 2014 the European equity index "growth" showed a positive performance. The year was characterised by a high volatility as a result of the geopolitical tensions (Russia/Ukraine), of the strong movements of currencies (the sharp revaluation of the US Dollar vs. all the other currencies), of the actions by the Central Banks (including primarily the rate cuts implemented by the ECB) and the sharp decline of raw materials (firstly oil).

Regarding sectors, the year was characterised by the out-performance of defensive sectors vs. more cyclical sectors, despite the considerable valuation premium of the first ones over the second ones and the fact that many defensive sub-sectors underwent radical downwards revisions of the estimates of profits.

At operational level the sub-fund favoured sectors and securities more exposed to the economy (cyclical and financial) in relation to their greater attractive valuation; despite the absolute performance of the sector was positive, in relative terms, the performance (taking management costs into account) was below its benchmark.

During the year, the sub-fund recorded no significant changes in the assets.

EQUITY EUROPE VALUE

In 2014, the European stock market showed a positive performance. The year was characterised by a high volatility as a result of the geopolitical tensions (Russia/Ukraine), of the strong movements of currencies (the sharp revaluation of the US Dollar vs. all the other currencies), of the actions by the Central Banks (including primarily the rate cuts implemented by the ECB) and the sharp decline of raw materials (mainly oil).

Regarding sectors, the year was characterised by the out-performance of defensive sectors vs. more cyclical sectors, despite the considerable valuation premium of the first ones over the second ones and the fact that many defensive sub-sectors underwent material downwards revisions of the estimates of profits.

During the year, the sub-fund recorded an increase in assets. At operational level, the sub-fund maintained a concentrated portfolio, preferring sectors and securities more exposed to the economy (cyclical, financial, utility) in relation to their greater valuation attractiveness, following the value investment philosophy. The preference for these sectors resulted in a disappointing performance of the sub-fund, both in absolute terms and in relation to its benchmark.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AT DECEMBER 31, 2014

1. GENERAL INFORMATION

FIDEURAM FUND (the "Fund") was established on March 30, 1999, in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg under Luxembourg Law in the form of a Mutual Investment Fund ("Fonds Commun de Placement") with multiple sub-funds. The fund is governed by Part I of the Luxembourg Law of December 17, 2010 relating to undertakings for collective investment (the "Law").

The sub-fund Fideuram Fund Zero Coupon 2013 was reactivated with a new investment policy on January 2, 2014 under the name Fideuram Fund Zero Coupon 2044.

The sub-fund Fideuram Fund Aurora was closed on November 13, 2014.

The sub-fund Fideuram Fund Zero Coupon 2014 was closed after December 20, 2014 and reactivated with a new investment policy under the name Fideuram Fund Zero Coupon 2045.

As of December 31, 2014, the Fund was divided into fifty four active sub-funds, each one having a specific investment policy. The sub-funds investing in zero-coupon bonds are reserved for institutional investors being part of the Intesa Sanpaolo Group.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The financial statements have been prepared using accounting principles generally accepted for such investment funds in Luxembourg, which include the following significant accounting policies:

a) Foreign currency translation

Assets and liabilities denominated in currencies other than EURO are translated at the exchange rate prevailing on the closing date. Foreign currency trades are translated at the exchange rate prevailing at the transaction date. Income and expenses expressed in currencies other than the accounting currency of the sub-fund are converted into that currency at the exchange rates prevailing on the transaction date. Realized and unrealized foreign currency gains or losses are included in the result of the year.

b) Cost of securities sold

The cost of securities sold is determined on a weighted average basis. This cost includes the purchase price and the brokers' fees. For the sub-fund Fideuram Fund Marshall Wace TOPS this cost does not include the monthly adjustment linked to the bulking process that enables to reduce costs by pre-selected brokers that aggregate executions in a security over the day and settle a single trade at an average price.

This cost is included in the caption Realised on swaps in the Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets.

c) Valuation of investments

Quoted securities and options as well as securities traded on other organized markets are valued at the latest available market prices as of the net asset value date. Other securities are valued at their estimated market prices as determined by the Board of Directors of the Management Company.

Units/shares of Undertakings for Collective Investment either listed or not, are valued on the basis of their last available net asset value.

The "To-Be-Announced" ("TBA") market is used to facilitate the forward trading of mortgage-backed securities ("MBS"). The TBA market creates parameters under which mortgage pools can be considered fungible and thus do not need to be explicitly known at the time a trade is initiated. This is where the name for the product "To Be Announced" comes from. The TBA market is the most liquid, and consequently the most important secondary market for mortgage loans. TBA trade settlements are often scheduled significantly into the future, but valuation and accounting methodology applied is not different from other transferable security held in the portfolio.

d) Income recognition

Interest income is recorded on an accrual basis and dividend income is recorded on a dividend ex-date basis, net of withholding tax if any.

e) Forward foreign exchange contracts

Forward foreign exchange contracts are valued at the forward rates for the remaining period from valuation date to maturity date.

The counterparties for each sub-fund for the forward foreign exchange contracts as at December 31, 2014 were as follows:

- Fideuram Fund Euro Short Term: Deutsche Bank and Morgan Stanley.

f) Future contracts

Initial margin, consisting of cash that is segregated upon entering into future contracts, is recorded in the caption "initial margin on future contracts" in the statement of net assets. The daily gain or loss on open future contracts is calculated as the difference between the prices valued as of the day before closing date and the closing price available as of the net asset value date. This daily gain or loss is recorded in cash at bank on a 24 hours basis.

Gains and losses on future contracts have been recorded in the caption "Net realized gains / (losses) on future contracts".

g) Securities lending

The Fund's Management Company may lend its portfolio securities to specialised banks, credit institutions and other financial institutions of high standing. The lending of securities is made for periods not exceeding 30 days. This limitation is not applicable if the Fund has the right to request, at any moment, the termination of the contract and the return of securities.

Securities lending is guaranteed by government securities and other bonds with a minimum rating of upper medium grade. Any transaction expenses in connection with such loans are charged to the borrowers.

h) Swap contracts

Swap contracts are valued on the basis of their fair value, under the responsibility of the Board of Directors of the Management Company. Swap contracts may be entered into in order to gain long and short exposure on listed securities or indices. The unrealized gain or loss on CFD and TRS contains, if any, the dividends, accrued interests and accrued commissions linked to these swaps. The Fund may also enter into Interest Rate Swaps and Credit Default Swaps.

i) Option contracts

Options quoted as well as options traded on other organized markets are valued at the latest available market prices as of the net asset value date.

Other securities are valued at their estimated market prices as determined by the Board of Directors of the Company.

j) Combined statements

The Fund's Combined Statement of Net Assets and the Combined Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets are the sum of the statements of each sub-fund as at December 31, 2014.

k) Formation expenses

The expenses originated during the establishment of the Fund have been fully amortised.

Where further sub-funds are created, these sub-funds bear their own formation expenses. The establishment costs for new sub-funds created may, at the discretion of the Board of Directors, be amortised on a straight line basis over 5 years from the date on which the sub-funds commenced business. The Board of Directors may, in its absolute discretion, shorten the period over which such costs are amortised.

3. NET ASSET VALUE PER UNIT

The net asset value per unit is computed daily by dividing the total net assets by the number of units outstanding for each sub-fund.

4. EXPENSES AND TAXES

a) Allocation of expenses

All the expenses directly and exclusively attributable to a certain sub-fund of the Fund shall be borne by that particular sub-fund. If it cannot be established that the expenses are directly and exclusively attributable to a certain sub-fund, they will be borne proportionally by each sub-fund.

b) Taxes

According to Luxembourg Law, the Fund is subject to a special tax status. The Fund is not subject to any income tax but is liable to an annual subscription tax at a rate of 0.05% of its total net assets payable quarterly and assessed on the last day of each quarter.

With regard to Zero Coupon sub-funds, which are exclusively offered to institutional investors being part of the Intesa Sanpaolo Group, the rate was reduced to 0.01% per year.

Any differences in the balances of payable or receivable are the result of shareholders activity during the last month of the year.

5. DISTRIBUTION OF PROFIT

In accordance with the Fund's prospectus, profit is not distributed but reinvested.

During the year ended December 31, 2014, there was no such suspension.

The Board of Directors of the Management Company is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with Luxembourg legal and regulatory requirements relating to the preparation of the financial statements and for such internal control as the Board of Directors of the Management Company determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Responsibility of the Réviseur d'Entreprises agréé

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing as adopted for Luxembourg by the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier. Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the judgement of the Réviseur d'Entreprises agréé, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the Réviseur d'Entreprises agréé considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control.

An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the Board of Directors of the Management Company, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

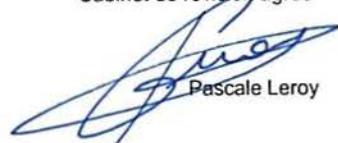

In our opinion, the financial statements give a true and fair view of the financial position of Fideuram Fund and of each of its sub-funds as of December 31, 2014, and of the results of their operations and changes in their net assets for the year then ended in accordance with Luxembourg legal and regulatory requirements relating to the preparation of the financial statements.

Consequently, we express no opinion on such information. However, we have no observation to make concerning such information in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole.
